II. Organizational Context and Purpose for the job

The fundamental mission of UNICEF is to promote the rights of every child, everywhere, in everything the organization does — in programmes, in advocacy and in operations. The equity strategy, emphasizing the most disadvantaged and excluded children and families, translates this commitment to children's rights into action. For UNICEF, equity means that all children have an opportunity to survive, develop and reach their full potential, without discrimination, bias or favoritism. To the degree that any child has an unequal chance in life — in its social, political, economic, civic and cultural dimensions — her or his rights are violated. There is growing evidence that investing in the health, education and protection of a society's most disadvantaged citizens — addressing inequity — not only will give all children the opportunity to fulfill their potential but also will lead to sustained growth and stability of countries. This is why the focus on equity is so vital. It accelerates progress towards realizing the human rights of all children, which is the universal mandate of UNICEF, as outlined by the Convention on the Rights of the Child, while also supporting the equitable development of nations.

Protection from violence and abuse is a core goal of UNICEF's Global Strategy. In the current Country Programme Document for Argentina, Violence-free environments, protection and access to justice is one of the five result areas. Prevention, referral and response to violence are key components of ACO's work, relying on strategies such as: i) Expand and improve support services for children, families, and communities to prevent violence in different environments and disseminate the justice access channels. ii) Improve family strengthening and prevention services to protect children against violence with a multisectoral-based approach. iii) Strengthen alternative care services in families and the community for those cases when separation is unavoidable. iv) Modify social norms and behaviors of children, families, and communities that legitimize gender stereotypes, adult-centrism, and the stigmatization of adolescents. v) Generate public demand for improving and expanding services with a gender, equity, and inclusive approach.
