BACKGROUND

Malawi's new Country Programme (2024-2028) includes three components: (1) child survival and development; (2) learning, skills development and protection; and (3) social policy. All components are supported by the programme and operational effectiveness and efficiency imperatives. All UNICEF programmes focus on risk-informed programming across the humanitarian and development nexus in all the above three outcome areas. Risk-informed programming across the humanitarian and development nexus in all three outcome areas will contribute to strengthened disaster preparedness, enhanced climate adaptation/mitigation and response, and increased resilience capacity of institutions, communities, and young people. Programming aligns with UNICEF Core Commitments for Children in Humanitarian Action and the Inter-Agency Standing Committee's Transformative Agenda.

Malawi is ranked fifth in the 2021 Global Climate Risk Index<sup>1</sup>. According to the Children's Climate Risk Index (UNICEF, 2021), Malawi is among the top forty countries with high climate risk for children and the most vulnerable communities. Malawi is highly susceptible to climate and environmental shocks, including flooding, drought, cyclones, and extreme heat. Such shocks have recently increased in frequency and magnitude and are among Malawi's children's greatest threats. As per UNICEF, 'Climate Landscape Analysis for Children in Malawi' report (CLAP) 2022 that climate-related hazards have resulted in the loss of life, displaced thousands of people, and damaged or disrupted roads, health facilities, schools, and power supplies across the country. Malawi also faces frequent outbreaks of cholera, endemic malaria, and the re-emergence of vaccine-preventable diseases such as polio, contributing to a need for a programme response fully responsive to an increased poly-crisis environment.

JUSTIFICATION

Malawi has a history of both public health and climate change-related emergencies. Climate-related, encompassing droughts, floods (often caused by cyclones or tropical storms and heavy rains), food insecurity, and infectious disease outbreaks. Cholera, Polio, Measles, Malaria, COVID-19, Schistosomiasis, and other infectious diseases create public health emergencies with devastating consequences in Malawi; there are also emerging Scabies outbreaks reported from schools in some districts. A cholera outbreak was reported in March 2022, which has been ongoing to date, with cases reported across all districts. On 13 March 2023, Tropical Cyclone Freddy affected at least 2.5 million people (including 51 per cent female and 56 per cent children), left 659,278 displaced, injured 2,186 people, and killed 679. The 659,278 displaced were housed in 776 camps.

With protracted poly-crisis specially Cholera, Malawi Government and relevant agencies continued to respond to the situation. As humanitarian partner, UNICEF continuously supports the Government of Malawi in responding to multiple emergencies in a coordinated and effective manner to reach more children and families affected by humanitarian crises. At the heart of UNICEF's response is the Core Commitments for Children in Humanitarian Action (CCCs). The CCCs call for the rapid provision and deployment of qualified personnel to act in the first eight critical weeks of humanitarian response and provide guidance for action beyond that, moving towards defined benchmarks. Therefore, UNICEF is seeking dedicated individuals willing to work on emergency response and preparedness, risk-informed and resilience programming, and operations and programme activities in various fields to ensure the survival and well-being of children, women, and affected communities in an emergency.

PURPOSE OF THE ASSIGNMENT

The UNICEF Malawi Country Office (MCO) is scaling up its Adolescents Development and Participation component in response to emergencies, and technical management is required. Oversight to ensure adherence to the CCCs for Humanitarian Action by the country office is a critical function during an emergency response. Therefore, a Adolescents Specialist in Emergency (ASiE) Consultant is required to provide technical support to
