II. Strategic Office Context and purpose for the job

The fundamental mission of UNICEF is to promote the rights of every child, everywhere, in everything the organization does — in programs, in advocacy and in operations. The equity strategy, emphasizing the most disadvantaged and excluded children and families, translates this commitment to children's rights into action. For UNICEF, equity means that all children have an opportunity to survive, develop and reach their full potential, without discrimination, bias or favoritism. To the degree that any child has an unequal chance in life — in its social, political, economic, civic and cultural dimensions — her or his rights are violated. There is growing evidence that investing in the health, education and protection of a society's most disadvantaged citizens — addressing inequity — not only will give all children the opportunity to fulfill their potential but also will lead to sustained growth and stability of countries. This is why the focus on equity is so vital. It accelerates progress towards realizing the human rights of all children, which is the universal mandate of UNICEF, as outlined by the Convention on the Rights of the Child, while also supporting the equitable development of nations.

Strategic office context :

Burundi is the second most densely populated country in Africa, with a population that is among the youngest, poorest, and most rural worldwide. It consistently ranks near the bottom of the Human Development Index, currently occupying position 187 out of 188 countries ranked. Children make up 48 per cent of the population, and face a range of protection challenges, including high risks of violence, abuse, and exploitation, and limited access to child-friendly justice. Only two in three children under the age of five have a birth certificate.

UNICEF continues to strengthen child protection, justice and civil registration systems at the national and community levels, while developing models of programming to address the needs of the most vulnerable girls and boys, including children without parental care, children on the move, and children living with disabilities.

Based in Bujumbura and reporting to the Chief of Child Protection, the Child Protection Specialist will support the promotion of birth registration and access to child-friendly justice for all children in contact with the law, in both development and humanitarian contexts, through the strengthening of justice and civil registration systems.

Purpose for the job:

The Child Protection Specialist reports to the Chief of the Section for guidance and general supervision. The Specialist supports the development and preparation of the Child Protection programme(s) and is responsible for the management, implementation, monitoring, reporting, and evaluation of the child protection programmes/projects within the country programme, with a particular focus on justice for children and birth registration. The Specialist provides technical guidance and management support throughout the programming processes. H/She facilitates the administration and achievement of concrete and sustainable contributions to national and international efforts to create a protective environment for children against all harm, and to protect their rights to survival, development and well being as established under the Convention on the Rights of the Child, international treaties/frameworks and UN intergovernmental bodies.

The Specialist contributes to the achievement of results according to plans, allocation, results based-management approaches and methodology (RBM), and UNICEF's Strategic Plans, standards of performance and accountability framework.
