II. Organizational Context and Purpose for the job

The fundamental mission of UNICEF is to promote the rights of every child, everywhere, in everything the organization does — in programmes, in advocacy and in operations. The equity strategy, emphasizing the most disadvantaged and excluded children and families, translates this commitment to children's rights into action. For UNICEF, equity means that all children have an opportunity to survive, develop and reach their full potential, without discrimination, bias or favoritism. To the degree that any child has an unequal chance in life — in its social, political, economic, civic and cultural dimensions — her or his rights are violated. There is growing evidence that investing in the health, education and protection of a society's most disadvantaged citizens — addressing inequity — not only will give all children the opportunity to fulfill their potential but also will lead to sustained growth and stability of countries. This is why the focus on equity is so vital. It accelerates progress towards realizing the human rights of all children, which is the universal mandate of UNICEF, as outlined by the Convention on the Rights of the Child, while also supporting the equitable development of nations.

Job organizational context: The Rohingya refugee crisis in Bangladesh is a high-profile emergency where 926,561 Rohingya refugees from Myanmar now populate 34 highly congested camps with serious connotations for the rights, protection, and wellbeing of children. The context garners significant donor interest and media attention. The Child Protection Area of Responsibility lies at the center of a complex, interagency response where coordination, coverage and accountability are key. It is imperative that Child Protection is represented clearly and accurately, that resources are well-managed and that needs are covered. The ability to identify, map, assess, analyze, represent, report on, and use child protection data effectively is also central to the response.

As of June 2022, there's 31 child protection partners implementing and reporting to the Child Protection Sub-Sector in Cox's Bazar. The Sub-Sector has a strong Strategic Advisory Group and few technical working groups.

Purpose for the job: The Child Protection Sub-Sector Coordinator reports to the Chief of Field Office for general guidance and direction.
